MEMORIES OF JOHN BROWN.

An Interesting Episode in The Old Hero's Life.

"Gath" in Cincinnati Inquirer.

I had an interview a day or two ago with the New York banker, Thomas B. Musgrave. I was talking with Chauncey M. Depew, late candidate for the United States Senate, at Musgrave's house, on Fifth avenue. Musgrave said:

"One day in the summer of 1859 I was sitting in the dry-goods house of which I was the junior partner, and my desk was in the middle of the floor, as the junior partner's always is, when a man came in whom I recognized in a minute as John Brown. He had been a friend of my father and had nursed me on his knee when I was a child. He took his seat on a bale of Osnaburghs. Osnaburghs were a sort of bagging used at that time to bale cotton. As Brown sat on the Osnaburghs he said: 'These are made of labor that ought to be free.' He repeated, feeling them in his fingers, 'made of labor that ought to be free.' He then said he wanted to see the head of the firm, who was also his friend. I said: 'Mr. Brown, he is very busy just now. Can't I attend to your business quite as well? What do you want?' 'I want to get some rifles,' he said, 'for Kansas. I want some money.' 'Well, Mr. Brown,' said I, 'suppose I give you a check for $50—won't that do?' 'That will do very well,' he said, 'and I need not wait to see Mr. ...'

"I wrote him the check, and he took it and put it away, and that is the last time I ever saw him. As he got up from the Osnaburghs he said, shaking his head: 'Made of labor that ought to be free.' A very little while passed, it seemed to me two months, perhaps, when I picked up the paper and saw that John Brown had made a descent on Harper's Ferry. I wrote to him, expressing my surprise that he was there and asking if anything could be done for him. He replied that he would like to have a suit of clothes to go to his trial. I knew what he liked to wear first-rate. He always wore, if he could control it himself, a suit of snuff-colored cloth or cassimere. His hair was of a brown color, very much like the tint of the snuff-colored cloth, and so were his eyes. His lips always looked to me as though they had water on them. He spoke with good, fair grammar, and was an interesting talker. I had the clothes made up and sent to him to appear at the trial. Not long after that a paper at Richmond published the names of Northern firms whom nothing must be bought from, and ours among the rest. My partners came to me and said that I had made a dreadful mistake and must drop out of the firm. I said that would suit me very well indeed, and I sold out and went to Italy, and was there at the siege of Gaeta. One night I was talking to General Cialdini, afterward the great General of Italy, and at that time considerable of a General, and he told me that Fort Sumpter had been fired on."

Reasons for Li-cen.

When President Lincoln was assassinated, Lord Beaconsfield, then Mr. Disraeli, said in the House of Commons: "There are rare instances when the sympathies of a nation approach those tender feelings that, generally speaking, are supposed to be peculiar to the individual, and to form the happy privileges of private life; and this is one. Under all circumstances we should have bewailed the catastrophe at Washington; under all circumstances we should have shuddered at the means by which it was accomplished. But in the character of the victim, and even in the accessories of his last moments, there was something so homely and so innocent that it takes, as it were, the subject out of all the pomp of history and the ceremonial of diplomacy; it touches the heart of nations and appeals to the domestic sentiment of mankind. Sir, whatever the various and varying opinions in this House and the country generally on the policy of the late President of the United States, on this, I think, all must agree, that in one of the severest trials which ever tested the moral qualities of man, he fulfilled his duty with simplicity and strength. Nor is it possible for the people of England, at such a moment, to forget that he sprang from the same fatherland and spoke the same mother tongue."

The Baby Stare.

The latest fashionable idiosyncrasy in England is what is known as the "baby stare." It is affected by young ladies, and consists of opening the eyes as widely as possible without raising the brows, and slightly turning the corners of the mouth upward. The necessary position of the mouth is obtained by many repetitions of the word "moue."

If you want to save money, go to I. Frederick and buy your watches, clocks and jewelry, where there is no advantage taken.

NEVADA FINANCES.

The Carson Appeal says: "Under the head of 'Nevada Bankrupt,' a Carson morning paper attempts to show that the State of Nevada is insolvent, and is also trying to rob the school fund. If the writer of the article had taken the pains to read the Constitution and look over the accounts, he never would have committed himself to such misleading statements as the following:

The decision of the District Judge on Saturday last, that the law authorizing the taking of $30,000 from the State school fund for the building of an Insane Asylum at Reno is valid legislation, together with the hurried action of the Board created by the Act in advertising for bids upon the contract without awaiting the action of the Supreme Court, calls attention to several facts that are of absorbing interest to the people of this State.

The 'hurried action' of the Board was mandatory. To ascertain how valid was the legislation authorizing the building of an asylum, one has but to turn to Article XI, Section 3 of the Constitution of Nevada. It says that the investment of school monies shall be made 'in United States bonds or bonds of the State.' The section further states: 'The interest only of the aforesaid proceeds shall be used for educational purposes.'

If the school money was invested in U. S. 4 per cents, which are now at a premium of 17 1/2 per cent, it would cost $17,500 to buy $100,000 worth of bonds. The State bonds are at par, and pay 5 per cent. Thus, by investing in State bonds at par, as the law directs, a saving is effected to the school fund of $17,500 in the first instance, and 1 per cent. on $100,000 in the second, a clear gain of $27,500."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Times, in an editorial on Conkling, says: On the one hand has been started the absurd rumor that the President desires the re-election of the ex-Senators, and on the other hand they do not hesitate to admit the possibility of combinations with the Democrats. The latter device is not so inconsistent with Conkling's recent course as it might seem. The declaration is reported to have been made by him in caucus at Washington (and never denied) that "he had entered a Republican caucus for the last time," was a fitting prelude to a general later incidents, his intimate consultation with Democratic politicians, for instance. This is not the first time that Conkling men have shown that their reverence for regularity is gauged pretty much by the degree to which they find their own interests advanced by party machinery.

The Mexican House of representatives last Thursday almost unanimously approved the Southern Railroad concession (Grant's), and the bill will pass the Senate also within the next ten days. The Tehuantepec concession, which the Railroad Commissioners granted Captain Eads, was approved by the House, and will pass the Senate with some non-essential modifications that are acceptable to Eads. The inauguration of the Mexican Central Railroad will take place June 10th.

The Free Lance says: "The way the thing is done over in Reno is particularly soothing; delicate sensations to sensitive minds you know. There they do not arrest a fellow for vagrancy and jug him, but they arraign him for being unoccupied and having a large amount of leisure on his hands, and on that charge they send the gentleman to the calaboose for ten days. The Gazette's preaching in that community is 'what causes such politeness on the part of courts and officers."

The New York Graphic cartoon on Conkling's resignation tickles the anti-Conklingites. The cartoon represents a Senate Chamber after the Roman pattern and the Senators attired in togas. Conkling is marching out in high dudgeon, leading the insignificant Platt, and says that he "goes but to return." "Perhaps," adds the Graphic.

An Indian girl last year cultivated, harvested, thrashed and sold 350 bushels of wheat. She has just bought a sulky plow, and will extend her work. If this young lady keeps on she will be able to support a husband in a year or two. She should have a husband too if we could get to her.

A San Francisco paper thus alludes to Hugh Mohan: "Don't forget that the distinguished Pennsylvania exile, Hugh J. Mohan, will twist the British Lion's tail for the edification of the Land Leaguers this evening."

The Nation says that Conkling's demand on Garfield for Civil Service Reform, sounds like exhortations to honest industry addressed to a crowd on the street by faro-bankers whose rooms have just been closed by the Police.

The dispatches say that Blaine has gone to New York to help beat Conkling. Blaine probably has done nothing of the kind.

It is hard to say which is more boundless Conkling's splendid audacity or Platt's stupendous insignificance.

How would it suit Roscoe to go back to the Senate on Democratic votes and be a sort of Mahone to himself?

Some one has written a clear-headed and intelligible editorial for the Carson Times. It appeared lately.

Harper's Weekly says Mr. Conkling has been soundly thrashed on his own ground and with his own shillalah.

Does Conkling intend to make it murder or suicide still?

Conkling is a high-kicker.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Is Albany a "bigger place than old Washington?" Mr. Conkling seems to take that view of it?

The extended bonds were first called "Windmills" in derision, and now the name sticks to them in compliment.

It is said about 30 captains of ocean steamers have been indicted by the United States Grand Jury in New York for overcrowding their vessels, and will be arrested and held for trial.

Partial records of the live-stock interests of Texas show a yearly yield of something over 400,000 head of cattle. Eight dollars per head is about the average market price at San Antonio.

The New Haven Register wipes off its chin and remarks: "Massachusetts temperance men want the screens taken from bar-rooms. Foolhardy men. Do they want to expose the hypocrisy that is among them?"

General Garfield undertook to please everybody, which was impossible, and was a mistake beyond all question. Nevertheless, it was an error that proves the right intentions of the President, while it is not one which people generally will admit to have given any politician a right to complain.—Boston Advertiser.

George Morton, a Canadian cheese exporter, will undertake a scheme for a great dairy colony in the Northwest. There are to be 224 farms of 160 acres each, stocked at the outset with 30 cows each. The novelty will be a narrow gauge railway, with a station on each farm, so that milk can be carried to a central cheese factory twice a day.

Hopper Notes.

Lots of 'em at Upson's. Huffaker, Holcombe, Merrill, Lamb and others have given it up. No grasshoppers at Lovelock's. Washoe valley is suffering, and very small crops for the year will certainly be the rule. Those who are fortunate enough to get even part of a crop will probably get high prices for it.

Women Never Think.

If the rabid old backer who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicine to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best, and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are as useless as false.

More People Die.

Golden Fleece.

The case of Marshall, Donahoe, Yost et als vs. the Golden Fleece Mining Company, has been finally settled in favor of the Trustees. The case was first tried before Referee Thomas E. Haydon. His decision was set aside by the District Court. Plaintiffs then appealed to the Supreme Court, and that body has affirmed the District Court's decision. The suit involved a large amount of money and the entire management of the mine.

ASBESTINE SUB-IRRIGATION PIPE.

Some Account of the Pipe Making Machine and How it Aids the Soil.

Messrs. Wilson & Brower, agents of the Patent Asbestine or Cement Pipe Sub-Irrigation Co. of Cal., accompanied by F. M. Dickerhoff, owner of half of said Patent Right to the State of Nevada, would call the attention of the citizens of Reno and the State of Nevada to some of the merits of their cement pipe making machine, now on exhibition on the corner of Virginia street and Commercial row, in this city. Some of the advantages of this cheap and durable cement pipe consist in its being adapted to sub-irrigation, carrying water long distances, drain, tile and sewer pipe. It has been proven to stand a pressure of 155 pounds to the square inch, and can be laid continuous, any length, any distance, in any size from one inch to six inches in diameter in the clear. Larger pipe, in any size, is made in sections by a machine patented for the purpose. For cheapness, rapid construction, durability and adaptability, no other kind of pipe whatever can compete with it.

On Briggs' ranch near Davisville, Cal., over 120 miles of pipe have been laid, two men making and laying as high as 2,000 feet in one day. The inventors, Messrs. Hamilton & Earle, living near Los Angeles, Cal., have three patents covering the invention. It took the first premium at the State Fair of California, and every other fair where exhibited. The press of California, consisting of the Record Union, San Francisco Bulletin, Pacific Rural Press, San Bernardino Times, Riverside Press and Horticulturalist, the Los Angeles Press, and dozens of other papers have written long articles endorsing this machine and its work as most wonderful. It having been recently introduced in the Atlantic States, more particularly as a drain pipe, the following journals, among many others, have given it very favorable mention: Michigan Farmer, Ann Harbor Argus, Canadian Patriot, Farmer's Review, Prairie Farmer Chicago, South Bend Register, and Drainage and Farm Journal Indiana, besides numerous testimonials from private individuals who have used the pipe in California.

Among some of its merits when used for sub irrigation it saves from three-fourths to nine-tenths the water used in surface irrigation. It is under perfect control and can be applied whenever irrigation is needed. There is no need of summer cultivation either before or after irrigating. The surface of the ground is always dry (in summer), hence, exempt from the unavoidable chill of surface irrigation. The soil is never excessively wet and cannot bake, but remains moist, loose and at a nearly uniform temperature, promoting a long, continued summer's growth. Anything that the soil lacks as a plant-food (manure, lime, etc.), can be easily and economically applied in liquid form. No grading is necessary as the system works perfectly on hillsides and undulating land. Roots cannot get into the pipe, neither can it suck mud, difficulties never overcome by any other system of sub-irrigation. The right for this county and others, or the State of Nevada as a whole, are now offered for sale on very favorable terms. Parties interested in the subject of irrigation or those who are looking for a good investment should examine this machine and see how much work it can do. The GAZETTE hopes to see this system of sub-irrigation tried on the alfalfa lands of Washoe.

Rough on the Supreme Court.
Referring to the GAZETTE's assertion that the Times had withdrawn from the legal arena after the little man was overruled in the injunction case, the Appeal says: "This will leave the supreme Court in an embarrassing dilemma and Carson without any lawyer on the tripod. The court will be obliged in future to study up its own decisions or send abroad for light. A Supreme Court without a daily newspaper to guide it aright is worse off than a mountain trout in the middle of Carson street. There is a strong pressure being brought to bear to induce the Times to re-establish its legal column."

F. & A. M.

The Masons advertise for bids for the contemplated addition to their hall. The additional room will provide a Banquet Hall 49x14.6. Library, 23x29.3, and in the lower story on Sierra street there will be a room 25x32 which will be for rent. The addition will cost about $3,000.

PYRAMID MINES.

What is Being Done by the Leading Mining Companies.

Ex-Alderman McCurdy, who yesterday returned from a trip to the Pyramid Lake mines, gives the Enterprise the following particulars in regard to the principal claims on which work is now being done:

THE CROWN PRINCE.
The Crown Prince adjoins the Jones & Kinkaid mine and is on the same vein. The company will shortly put up a ten-stamp mill for dry crushing and an O'Hara furnace. They have a great deal of rich ore, but it is too base to be worked by ordinary mill process. They have opened several deposits of ore that will run from $12 or $14 up to $200 per ton. It is thought that the ore thus far developed will average $20 per ton.

They have now a tunnel 400 feet in length, which has cut the vein, and an air shaft up to the surface, a distance of 150 feet. Four men are now engaged in running a tunnel from the bottom of the air shaft to the shaft of the Jones & Kinkaid mine, which it will strike about 300 feet below the surface. This will give them command of a chute of ore from three to twenty feet in width.

Adjoining their main vein they have a parallel vein, on which they have sunk a shaft 117 feet. At the depth of 50 feet they have three feet of ore that assays $100, and at the bottom of the shaft nine feet of ore, averaging $25. On the southwest they have still another parallel vein into which, from the bottom of the Jones & Kinkaid shaft (400 feet deep) they ran a tunnel to the west and struck nine feet of ore, four feet of which assays from $200 to $400 per ton. The ore of the vein, at this depth, is a black oxide of copper, with considerable iron and silver, as above given. The ore generally runs from twenty five to thirty-seven per cent copper.

THE JONES AND KINKAID.
Have a shaft down 400 feet. At this depth they struck more water than they could readily handle, when a tunnel was started to drain it. This tunnel will come in 150 feet below the bottom of the shaft or 550 feet below the surface. Very hard rock was recently encountered in the tunnel, rendering progress very slow with hand drills, but a Barleigh drill was yesterday started up, and the tunnel will now soon reach a point under the shaft.

The company have a great deal of ore in sight of about the same character as that found in the Crown Prince. At about the 370 level the ore changes from a yellowish to quite a black color, and assays from $50 to $200 in silver. The ore contains but little gold.

The company have shut down their wet-crushing mill and will arrange for dry-crushing and roasting their ore.

Sacred Money.
The Carson Index says: "Assuming that all the amounts, now proposed, will be taken from the fund, we find an aggregate of $600,000 coin which will be missing from our irreducible and Sacred School Fund. On the 1st day of January, 1879, the School Fund contained of coin and securities not far from $550,000. As a State we have broken faith with regard to the preservation of the school moneys, and are rapidly exhausting the entire fund that by the Constitution is sacredly devoted to educational purposes."

The Legal Reason Why.
Said a Lawyer to-day: "Now, I've wondered what was the matter of Judge _____ for a long time. He never sees a point that I advance. I get it in the neck every time. To-day I put on his glasses, and damned if I could see a barn. I guess that's probably the reason why he never can see things as I do."

Tar and Feather.

Some scoundrel has been breaking the tops off of growing trees. It is hard to say what a man of that kind deserves. Tar and feathers are too good for him. Several of Mrs. Schaefer's trees and many others have been nearly ruined.

Good for High.

Pete Marker goes out to his ranch at Lovelock on Saturday. Hans Marker claims to have the the highest clover in the world. It is almost up to his chin, and so heavy as to break beneath its own weight.

BICYCLISTS.

On Their Way Across the Continent on Two Wheels.

Prof. Fred. T. Merrill and A. A. Bennett, who left San Francisco on a $2,000 wager to ride from that city to Boston in seventy days, to ride the entire distance on their bicycles, are making very good time on the road, and showing wonderful endurance.

Besides being the champion of the United States, as far as endurance and speed are concerned, Prof. Merrill is the champion of the world for fancy riding, executing feats that are simply marvelous, and such as would be considered impossible, such as standing perpendicularly on his wheel, carrying a heavy man on his shoulder, and stopping his machine stationary in that position and many others.

At Sacramento they were witnessed by about 3,000 people who were almost wild with enthusiasm, and at Auburn, Dutch Flat and Truckee large crowds assembled to witness the wonderful skill and grace with which they handle the bicycle.

They had a very hard time of it over the Summit. Bennett struck a stone and rolled down a bank over thirty feet, and both being obliged to carry their machines on their shoulders and walk over fifteen miles of the steepest grade and through the snow.

They arrived in Truckee Thursday night, and are expected here Friday, where they will lay over and repair their bicycles preparatory to crossing the plains. While here it is expected that they will give the public an opportunity of witnessing their wonderful skill.

Fatal shooting.

EUREKA, May 25th, '81.

About 4 o'clock this evening Adolph Herve shot and killed Max Trietschel at Bremen Kamp and Reglie's City Brewery. The shooting created intense excitement, and large crowds collected in the streets. Herve had not been captured at 8 o'clock last night. Both were young men and well known.

Look Out For Him.

Blakeley says that he will establish himself on the north side of the track. He will keep a large stock, also a four-year-old club. The first man who attempts to cross the track to buy anything in Blakeley's line will be beaten to death with the little man's club.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

P. T. Barnum has recovered nearly all the flesh he lost. It pays to advertise.—Danbury News.

The politest men in the world are those who tell the collector to call again.—New Orleans Picayune.

When that curious woman was turned into a pillar of salt, her lot was not a happy one.

Old people are generally in their anecdote, and the result is history gets mixed.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

"Silk stockings at this season?" "Yes," she said, with the utmost naïveté, "I always wear my best stockings in windy weather."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Do you drink?" said a temperance reformer to a beggar who had implored alms of him. "Yes, thank you," returned the candid pauper; "where shall we go?"

In a valiant suffering for others, not in slothful making others suffer for us, did nobleness ever lie. The chief of men is he who stands at the van of men, fronting the peril which frightens back all others; which, if it be not vanquished, will devour the others. Every noble crown is, and on earth will forever be, a crown of thorns.—[Thomas Carlyle.]

Fascination.

A short paper on fascination is contributed to the Nature by Carl Orsonson. He says: In the interior of the province of Valdivia, South Chile, a species of wood snipe is often caught by the natives in the following manner: When the bird flies into one of the low bushes two men on horseback go around it in the same direction, swinging meanwhile their lassos over the bush. After ten or more rounds one man slips down from his horse while the other continues to ride around the undergrowth and leads his companion's horse. The dismounted rider carefully creeps to the place where the snipe sits in a state of stupor and nearly motionless from the effect of the rider's circular movements and kills it with a quick blow of a stick. When the writer was first told of this mode of capturing a bird he would not believe it, but he himself, in 1853 or 1854, took part in this very sort of method of taking the bird in the hacienda San Juan, in Valdivia. He left the house without a gun. He saw a snipe fall into a dense bush, and expressed his regret to a servant that he had not a gun so that he might secure a good specimen of a not very common species for the natural history collection. "Never mind," said the servant, "if you wish we will get the bird," and the bird was caught without injuring it, substantially in the way above mentioned.

Vanity of European Statesmen.

Lord Beaconsfield's fame was greater abroad than at home. This was only natural. That wife is the best, said the Greek, of whom neither good nor evil is spoken beyond her home. And the same may be said of an English statesman. To wish to play a great part on the world's stage was the besetting weakness of Lord Beaconsfield, and it is the besetting weakness of most Continental rulers. No nation is more wealthy and powerful than the United States, and this is mainly because their leading men do not aspire to make their names household words in Paris, Vienna and St. Petersburg, but are satisfied with looking after the interests of their own country, without meddling with matters that in no way concern their country. That the pot-house politicians of the Continent contemptuously sneer at Mr. Gladstone is good ground for our confidence in him.—London Truth.
